Baltimore, Maryland, May 2nd The probable candidacy of State Senator Orlando Harrison for the democratic nomination for Governor hext year has brought about consideration of the question as to nominees for State offices rather early, although no earlier than has been the case on several occasions in past years Ex-Governor Frank Brown was in the field six years before he finally secured the nomination, and ex-Governor Warfield was an avowed candidate five years before he was chosen in 1908. Further back, the late Governor Hamilton was a candidate in 1875 and was not nominsted until 1879. Senator John Walter
